

Elsker ikke, elsker
Love me not, Love me

Hun havde skrevet et brev til hende.
She had written her a letter.

Det føltes som om det var den bedste måde
at få det sagt på.
It felt as if it was the best way to tell her.

Hun var stadigvæk forelsket i hende men kunne ikke
længere klare hendes jalousi.
She was still in love with her but could no longer stand her jealousy.

Hun havde ikke mødt nogen anden men kunne ikke længere holde ud at føle sig overvåget.
Before writing the letter she had re-read all the letters she had received over the years from her.

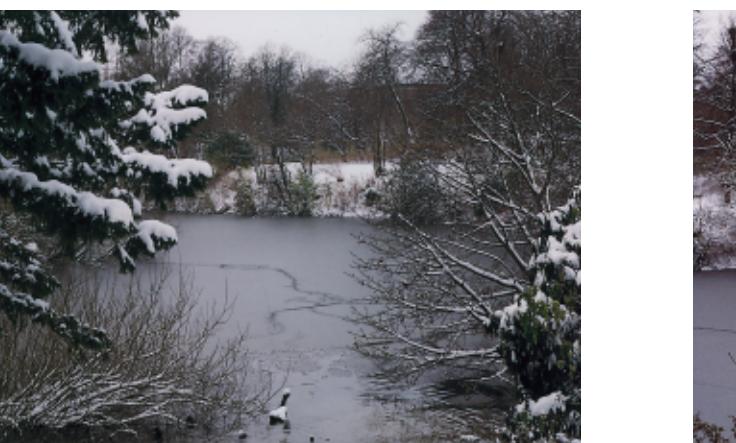

Hun havde ikke været en let beslutning.
It had been no easy decision.

Før hun skrev brevet havde hun læst alle breve igennem, som hun havde fået af hende gennem årene.
She had moved her and she knew she couldn't just write an email.

Nu blev hun overvældet af utålmodighed over at det
skulle tage så lang tid før brevet kom frem.
She became extremely impatient over the fact that it should take so long for the letter to arrive.

Elsker, elsker ikke
Love me, Love me not

Efter at have læst hendes brev blev hun rasende.
She felt angry after reading her letter.

Hun var så træt af hendes paranoia. Uden tillid til hinanden kunne de selvfoligelig ikke fortsætte.
She was so fed up with her being so paranoid. Of course they couldn't continue if they didn't trust one another.

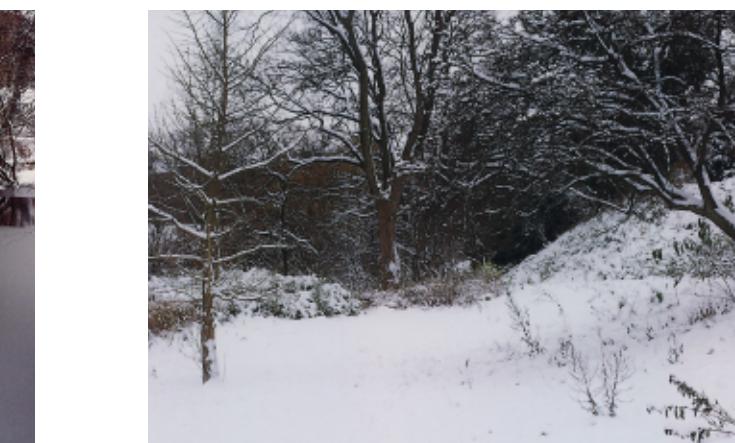

At blive anklaget for noget som hun ikke havde gjort var det der sårede hende mest.
What hurt her the most was being accused of something she had not done.

Det var ubehageligt at tænke på, at hun havde mistænkt hende i lang tid.
It wasn't nice to think she had been under suspicion for such a long time.

Hun havde lagt brevet væk uden at svare på det.
She had put the letter away without answering it.

De mødtes på en café og snakkede i flere timer.
They met in a café and talked for several hours.

Bagefter gik hun hjem og samlede alle breve fra hende og sendte dem tilbage
Afterwards she went home, collected all the letters from her and returned them.